

Mrs. Fatma Giuma Elhbeshi

Lecturer and researcher in department of environmental & food sciences

Contact details

Mobile: (218) 915289871

E-mail: F.Lahbeshi@gmail.com

Master's degree in Analytical Chemistry from Sheffield Hallam University, United Kingdom, after obtaining a Bachelor's degree in Chemistry from University of Tripoli, Libya, and starting on a scientific research career at the Libyan Biotechnology research center.

- An experience in chemical analysis using classical methods and instrumental analysis using various devices such as HPLC, GC, Atomic Absorption Spectroscopy and Flame Photometer.
- Practical experience in water quality & environmental analysis.
- Interested in medicinal plants and olive oil analysis.
- Team member of sensory evaluation and chemical analysis of olive oil of the Libyan Biotechnology Research Center, accredited by the International Olive Council.

Publication

Evaluation of physico-chemical and microbial quality of bottled drinking water marketed in Tripoli city, Libya. (2025)

Fatma Abolgasem, Sundus Almontasir, Fatma Elhabeshi, Hajer Elgheriani, Fauzia Abuhtna and Mohamed Salem

Estimation of sodium and potassium content in bottled water available in commercial markets (2024)

Sundus Almontasir, Fatma Elhbeshi, Fatma Abolgasem

Assessment of the awareness of the Libyan citizens in choosing plastic products that are in contact with food (2022)

*Hana Jamhour, Ramadan Elghaziwi, Anour Shebani, Hussein Etmimi, Fathia Alahmer, Fatma Elhbeshi